Mixed Drinks Measure Defeated

By ROBERT L. SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Residents of Little Rock and Hot Springs who would like their liquor "by the gulp rather than by the gallon" suffered a sobering defeat Thursday in the Arkansas legislature.

The House and Senate defeated within minutes of each other bills that would have permitted the two cities to call elections to decide whether to legalize the limited sale of mixed drinks.

The vote in the Senate mounted to 15 "ayes," three short of passage, before last-minute vote switching put the final vote at 8-26.

The House bill failed 44-47 after debate in which proponents argued that the legislature should pass the measure in order to allow the cities to decide the issue themselves.

Reconsideration was given in both houses. This means the bills could be brought up again within three days. Rep. B. G. Hendrix of Fort Smith gave notice of reconsideration in the House and Sen. Oscar Alagood of Little Rock gave notice in the Senate.

Under the bills, the cities could hold local option elections to permit the sale of mixed drinks in restaurants with a seating capacity of 50 or more and in hotels with 50 or more rooms.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has said he favors the legislation in order to attract tourists and conventions to the cities.

Opponents, however, hinted that they saw the bill as an attempt by liquor interests to clear the way for broader legalization. They said they didn't see how the sale of mixed drinks could be confined to the two cities.

"It will affect every city in the state," said Rep. Lacy Landers of Benton. "This is just another step to open bars in Arkansas."

"They keep talking about Little Rock and Hot Springs," said Rep. Dan Cook of Camden. "...With our transportation system as it is today, how can you confine it to Little Rock and Hot Springs?"

Sen. Guy Jones of Conway said this was the first administration-favored bill he had opposed, but that he was going to oppose this one "and I'm going to oppose it hard."

He foresaw the highways littered with "torn and crushed bodies" from wrecks caused by drinking drivers.

Rep. Ode Maddox of Oden said it was better to have "liquor by the gulp rather than by the gallon" in referring to Arkansas' present law allowing across-the-counter sales of packaged liquor. Rep. Sherman Williams of Little Rock said sentiment existed that "you shouldn't have to buy a drunk to get a drink."

Jones told the Senate that the state's private club law was serving "very efficiently" to supply all the mixed drinks needed in Arkansas, but Williams told the House that this was an "under cover" sale.

"Let the business be above board and regulated more than it is now," Williams said.

Rep. F. L. Beasley of Hot Springs asked if the legislators wished the state to have "a forthright or hypocritical image—we all know mixed drinks are being sold."

Although the legislators generally sought to avoid bringing religion into the debate, Rep. John Bethell of Des Arc saw it as a moral issue. He also said he wasn't "glibly enough" to think liquor by the drink would be confined to Little Rock and Hot Springs.

Rep. Allan Dishongh of Little Rock said the bill didn't allow "anyone to open up a bar on the corner" and didn't mean "the liquor is going to flow in the street."

Maddox and Rep. Ray S. Smith Jr. of Hot Springs said the cities should be given an

Students Fail to Change Gov. Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — University of California student marchers return to classes today with no sign that their state Capitol protest changed Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's mind on tuition and economy.

Reagan thanked his administration's first wave of marching protestors Thursday but gave no indication he'd change his plans to cut higher education budgets and charge tuition for California students at the state university and colleges.

Many of the students had ridden all night on chartered buses from campuses 400 and 500 miles away.

Thousands more from California's 19 state colleges are scheduled to march Saturday, led by the California Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO).

In an unscheduled address to the students, Reagan said he was "a little shocked" over reports that he held a grudge against higher education.

"I want to thank you because you are the first and only group in the academic community that have come and asked the governor what his position is," Reagan said.

Later, student leaders said after a private conference with Reagan that they had failed to get their point across.

"We feel he does not understand the University of California, the state colleges or higher education in general," said Jay Jeffcoat, president of the student body at the University's Santa Barbara campus.

Reagan says a $280-annual university tuition and "temporary" spending cuts are needed to balance the state budget.

But Reagan now has "a different perspective and new respect for students in general—considerably more respect," Jeffcoat said.

Jeffcoat, dressed in a dark suit and striped tie, joined other student leaders in advising the marchers to be quiet and orderly.

Jeffcoat said the marchers represented all shades of student opinion from the nine-campus university. Included were some students from the Berkeley campus, the scene of demonstrations and unrest that reached a climax with the firing of university President Clark Kerr last month.

— opportunity to vote on the matter.

"I'm voting for the cities to have that right," said Maddox, who noted that two years ago he opposed legislation allowing the sale of domestic wines in Arkansas restaurants. He said he could condone the liquor bill, however, because it was permissive in nature.

Sen. Richard Earl Griffin of Crossett said any local option election should be statewide since the hotel and restaurant bars in Little Rock and Hot Springs would be accessible to persons throughout the state.

Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott supported the Senate version, although he said he'd vote whisky out of the state if it could be done.

"But it's here," he said. "We have it."

McGhee to Get a Plant

MCGHEE, ARK. (AP) — Kenneth Hollis, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, said Thursday a die-casting plant will locate here if the city can raise $25,000 to buy land for the plant.

First Atomic Spy Case for Red China

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — The first atomic spy case in Red China — the newest and probably least advanced member of the five-nation nuclear club — was reported today. There was speculation in Tokyo that it would be used to whip up more public fury against the Soviet Union.

Quoting the "Revolutionary Workers' Daily," a newspaper loyal to Mao Tse-tung, the Peking correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi Shimbun said two armed men in the chemical industry ministry have been arrested on a charge of stealing atomic secrets.

One of them was identified as an official named Ting Tle-sheng. The nature of the secrets was not specified. The paper said Security Minister Hsieh Fuchih, an ally of Mao, was investigating to determine whether any of the information had gotten to a foreign country. The foreign country was not named.

The spy report came amid continuing daily anti-Soviet demonstrations in Peking and anti-Chinese demonstrations in Moscow.

The Soviet government today published the text of a protest note to the Chinese government implying that it was hindering the flow of Soviet aid to North Vietnam.

The note, delivered to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow Thursday, said restriction of Soviet personnel in Peking to the confines of their embassy prevented their exercising their normal functions such as those connected with "providing military and economic aid to the Vietnamese people which goes through China."

The note made no charge that the aid was not getting through, but in the past Soviet liaison officers in China had to press Chinese transport authorities continuously in order to push the shipments through. There have long been reports in Moscow of Chinese authorities delaying Soviet rail shipments to Hanoi, still a sizable portion of the aid program. Other aid goes by the slower sea route, avoiding Chinese interference.

The atomic spy case also came at a moment of apparent reorientation in Mao's campaign to regain control of the government and party machinery from President Liu Shao-chi, party general secretary Teng Hsiao-ping and their supporters.

Official Mao organs — the Peking People's Daily, the Liberation Army Daily, and the Kwangming Daily — told the faithful they could not hope to regain and consolidate power unless they join with Maoist sympathizers in official positions and in the army.

The papers said the Maoists who seized power in Manchuria's Heilungkiang Province did the correct thing in accepting the help and support of such men as the provincial party secretary who joined them after some soul searching.

The papers cautioned that old revolutionaries still loyal to Mao can be used and there is no reason to overthrow everyone in authority, a campaign the young Red Guards have pushed in recent weeks.

Cubans Plan Government in Exile

By BEN F. MEYER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban exiles are talking once again about the possibility of establishing a Cuban government in exile but the official word here is that the United States would not recognize it.

Cuban exiles are expected to go to Buenos Aires, Argentina, to carry on an unofficial campaign among delegates to the Inter-American Conference starting Wednesday. They seek cooperation in their campaign against the Fidel Castro government in Havana.

Similar efforts are expected at the summit meeting of presidents of the American republics, expected to be held in mid-April in Punta Del Este, Uruguay.

Asked about the U.S. position regarding recognition of a Cuban government in exile, a State Department official said today:

"There has been no change whatever in the previously declared policy of the United States against recognition of a Cuban government in exile."

He conceded there might be good arguments, sentimental and otherwise, for sympathy for such an idea. But there are overpowering practical reasons why the United States could not change its policy at this time, he said.

The exiles, he commented, have never been able to create a unified, well-coordinated organization to speak for them.

The same point was made recently by Panama's ambassador to the Organization of American States, Dr. Eduardo Rittler. Speaking to an exile gathering in Miami, Rittler urged them to get together and set up a government in exile, but emphasized that real unity among the exiles would be essential.

At one time, there were more than 200 organizations among the some 500,000 Cuban exiles. In Miami, exiles say jokingly that many of the exile organizations have already picked out a full slate of officials, from president on down, for the time when an exiled government may take over in Cuba.

For some months the exiles have entertained hopes that the Latin American republics might extend some sort of help to them, either in harboring an exile government, or in pushing for representation of the exiles in the Organization of American States.

Exiles say they have received a sympathetic hearing in many Latin American capitals and that several countries indicated consideration for harboring an exile government such as those which functioned in London during World War I.

Should an exile government be established in some Latin American nation and get recognition from any appreciable number of other countries, there would be new consideration of the situation in Washington.

Getting the Bugs Out of Travel Abroad

Quarantine inspectors for the United States Department of Agriculture have their hands full trying to keep foreign plant and animal pests and diseases out of the United States. Stationed at seaports, international airports, and border crossings throughout the country, they inspect baggage and vehicles against invasion by unwanted visitors.

THE YOUNG COUPLE, top left, was sure the carnation seedlings and Irish shamrocks they were bringing home from Scotland were free of insects or diseases. They were — but in the soil around them inspectors found cysts of golden nematode, which attacks tomato and potato crops. The lady with the suitcase in the picture above was not so innocent. Returning from Hawaii, she tried to conceal mangoes in her baggage, but they were sniffed out by an alert inspector. Mangoes often carry a seed weevil and other pests not found on the mainland.

UNWELCOME HOPPERS that jumped out of an air passenger's small zippered bag in a Honolulu airport led inspectors on a merry chase before they were caught and destroyed. The insects were an Asian species not found in the U.S. Even Hollywood is not immune to being the source of bringing in dubious stars other than foreign acting imports. A quantity of Spanish moss brought into the United States from Mexico recently to be used as a movie prop, lower right, was considered suspect by inspectors. Fumigation was necessary as a precaution against possible pests on the moss.

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1929 they were dancing the charleston and the stock market was moving up and up to the crash. In 1966 they were dancing the frug — and the stock market was going up and up until it started to wobble.

Lauren Bacall logically inquired in "The Light Fantastic" Thursday night on ABC, "Should I sell my stocks or stop dancing."

A bit later in the program, John Forsythe, playing a social historian, undertook to show that the early 1900s produced variations like the grizzly bear, the kangaroo and the kitchen sink, and we wound up in World War I. In the 1930s there was swing, which led to the lindy, the sassy Q, the shag, pecking — and World War II. Today, the professor pointed out, what started as the frug has variations like the watusi, the freddie and the swim.

Miss Bacall wisely stopped the music at this point to protest that "you can use anything to prove anything."

And the "Stage 67" confection proved that almost any premise is acceptable if witty, ingenious and leads to entertainment. The bright musical lecture by Arthur Laurents demonstrated just about every dance fad from the minuet to the jerk, all amusingly.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can this country foster a repertory company like the ones that have helped make the English the best acting breed in the world? Director Mike Nichols thinks so, and he plans to do something about it.

Repertory — presenting a series of plays with a resident company — has been an aim of the civic groups, foundations and theater people who have tried to foment America's cultural revolution. The results have ranged from good (as in Minneapolis) to dismal (as in New York's Lincoln Center).

Nowhere have there been results approximating the prestige of England's Royal Shakespeare Company. Nichols, immensely successful in his first film ("Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?") after a string of stage successes ("Barefoot in the Park," "Luv," etc.), has long harbored the notion of an American repertory. "I shrink from making any pronouncements," said the director in his office at Paramount, where he is preparing "The Graduate." "It seems to me the publicity mill grinds out too much material when something is done in the theater. It is almost overwhelming.

"All I would like to do is gather together some people whom I have worked with and would like to continue to work with. It is so much easier to create with people whose styles and potentials you know. You can develop their talents as well as your own.

"It seems to me that is important: 'To start with the people, not with a building. I don't want a complex organization. All I want is the opportunity to be able to work with actors like Alen Arkin, Barbara Harris, Robert Redford and Elaine May. They seem to feel the same way, and some time in the future we may be able to do it."

Nichols, along with Miss May, Arkin, Shelley Berman and others, came out of what amounted to a repertory company: "The Second City" troupe of Chicago. He found the experience invaluable.

"I don't think any of us would be able to accomplish what we can do today if it hadn't been for 'Second City,'" he remarked. "We were originating and playing 100 scenes in a week.

"I am so sick of hearing how great the English actors are, and yet it is true. The reason they are so good is that they are able to off into repertory and perform 50 plays in two years. There's no such opportunity for an American actor to do the same. That's why we need repertory."

MASCULINITY OR IMMATURE?

Dear Helen:
Regarding the man whose ego was bruised because his wife asks him not to wear his good clothes painting, gardening, etc., you said the reason for his acting like a mule was "masculinity."

I'd say it's babyishness. A man whose ego is so inflated that he feels threatened when a woman gives him reasonable advice has a bad superiority complex and should grow up.

This is the same type of pseudo-masculinity that makes a man feel justified in paying a woman less wages for the same amount of work.

The widespread "male superiority" syndrome of "I'm king, no mere woman will tell ME what to do!" only makes men look ludicrous. Instead of bowing down to it, women should try to break males of the habit, so that really mature relations can be established between them. — A MAN STRIVING FOR A MATURE WORLD

Dear Man: Go ahead and strive, chum. But most of us gals will settle for "inequality"—and love it. We'd rather enhance a man's image of himself than compete with him, and this means, among other things, letting him win those so-important little masculine victories over our "management." (After an argument, of course. That's part of the game.)

Smart females sense that the males are the insecure sex and woman's role is to build their plain about husbands dropping we want by crowing them "king."

Dear Helen: I recently read an article that said nearly 300,000 males, teens and adults, will become unwed fathers this year, according to statistics.

This is terrible! I think men who would stoop to such awful sin should be imprisoned for life with no chance whatsoever for parole. Don't you?—MALE MINISTERIAL STUDENT

Dear MMS: Why pick on men when they're only half to blame? Besides if you put 300,000 males a year in jail, at the end of 20 years you'd have some 6 million men behind bars—and a lot of unhappy spinsters!—H.

Dear Helen: My husband doesn't kiss me good-bye when he leaves for work. This hurts because we have only been married six months. His parents are undemonstrative. Could this be the reason? Advice will be appreciated. —BAFFLED

P. S. He kisses me hello at night. Should I complain about mornings?

Dear Baffled: It's better to be kissed hello than good-bye, so don't give him any lip about his morning lapse. Just wait at the door and give him your lips. He'll learn.—H.

Why change things?—H.

Dear Helen: You're right when you say "masculinity's with men, that's what." They're so mulish about little unimportant things (changing clothes to paint), and so wise about the things that matter.

Those "small boy" traits in my husband make him human. Wouldn't it be awful to have a completely mature man? How could you ever live up to him?—IMMATURE TOO ing them out to dinner.

These gals should realize how lucky they are. What if they had a man who chased women, drank and was never at home? I had a husband like that. Believe me, THEN you have problems!

Gals, if you have a husband who loves you and the children and provides for you, appreciate him! If you don't someone else will. — A. R.

Australian Are Nurses Recruited

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hospitals in the Los Angeles area are looking to Australia to recruit nurses.

"The shortage is very acute," said a spokesman for White Memorial and Glendale Seventh-day Adventist hospitals.

Frank Phillips, personnel director at White Memorial, has already left for Australia to interview nurses at Sydney.

A survey last year showed there were only 261 nurses for every 100,000 residents of the Los Angeles area. The average 10 years earlier was 300 nurses.

Tulsa Beats Bradley in Close One

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
That Peoria jinx against Bradley is a thing of the past as the Tulsa Hurricane, an even more surprising team than the Princeton Tigers in college basketball this season.

It's been 11 years since the Hurricane beat Bradley on the road at Peoria. They did it Thursday night 72-71 by surviving Bradley's furious rally that nearly erased a 12-point Tulsa lead in the last four minutes.

"It's been a long time coming," beamed Tulsa Coach Joe Swank. "I'm not sure it was one of our best games, but our 62 per cent of floor shots is our high for the season. We're proud that we won at Bradley."

Tulsa's victory kept the Hurricane on the heels of first-place
Louisville in the tough Missouri Valley Conference and overshadowed the narrow escape from defeat of the nationally second-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels.

The Tar Heels pulled out a 75-73 overtime victory over Wake Forest at Chapel Hill after Newton Scott missed a foul shot in the last five seconds that would have given the Deacons an upset in regulation time.

Led by Elvin Hayes' 42 points, the fifth-ranked Houston Cougars beat Hardin-Simmons 92-85 at home, Texas Western, No. 8 in The Associated Press poll, and the only other team in The AP Top Ten to play, humbled
Arizona on the road 75-65.

New Mexico turned the tables on New Mexico State 65-57, Utah
State edged Denver 82-81, St.
John's of New York downed West Virginia 83-71, Army whipped Manhattan 69-64 and NYU overcame Georgetown,
D.C., 83-77 in other major games.

Tulsa, now 6-1 to Louisville's 8-1 in the MVC, led by 61-49 before Bradley staged its furious late rally with a full court press.
Eldridge Webb led the Hurricane with 25 points. Joe Allen topped the Braves with 22.

Bob Lewis, with 17 points, scored six of them in the extra period to spark North Carolina over Wake Forest after the regulation game ended 67-67 when Scott missed his free throw.

David Lattin's 20 points paced Texas Western over Arizona at Tucson. Bill Davis got 27 for the losing Wildcats.

Keith Swagerty scored 24 points and grabbed 30 rebounds to lead U. of Pacific over UCal, Santa Barbara, on the road 84-71. Jay McMillen's 30 points led Maryland over George Washington 78-52 at College Park while Pat Raftery's 26 points paced Fordham over Colgate 78-57 at New York.

Playing at home, San Jose
State beat the St. Mary's Gaels 92-74. In other home court victories, Seattle beat Seattle Pacific 66-47, New Orleans Loyola defeated Birmingham Southern 87-75 and Rhode Island whipped Massachusetts 96-72. On the road, Seton Hall beat Scranton 80-71.

Has Small College Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Monroe of Winston-Salem has the small college basketball scoring championship all but wrapped up. Figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed today that Monroe has 42.6 points per game.

If he keeps up his scoring pace, Monroe will finish with the highest average in the history of college basketball except for Bevo Francis who averaged 40.5 points per game in 1953-54.

Tate to Stay as Miami's Head Coach

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Charlie which kept him from taking the

Three Tied for Lead in Phoenix

By STEVE BASSETT

Associated Press Sports Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — You'd never know from the scores that the greens were playing hard and fast at the Arizona Country Club course as second round play began Friday in the $70,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

Jack Rule, Ken Still and Dean Refram, each with a five under par 66, led an assault of 56 pros who equaled or bettered par over the 6,489-yard, par-35-36-71 layout.

Refram, 30-year-old tour regular from Boca Raton, Fla., with bogies on the 7th and 15th holes, was the only one of the trio failing to make or better par on every hole during Thursday's first round.

"I just tried to throw the ball in high to keep it on the green," said Rule, who one-putted the final seven holes, racking up five birdies.

Rule, 28, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was playing "strictly an ordinary round" until his putter got hot on the 13th hole. He birdied the 13th, 14th, 15th, 17th and final holes, the longest putt a 15-footer.

Refram, who uses the pendulum style, managed to hit 17 greens, scoring birds on seven holes, including a 30-footer on No. 11. He needed 32 putts to complete the round.

Still, whose 32nd birthday will be Sunday, the final day of the 71-hole tourney, had trouble with the greens during the pro-am warmup but had no complaints Thursday.

One stroke back of the leaders were four regular Charlie Sifford of Los Angeles and Ernie Schnetter Jr., a club pro from Ogden, Utah, who plays in only two or three tourneys each year.

Last year's Phoenix Open champion, 27-year-old Dudley Wy-song of McKinney, Tex., was grouped with 14 other golfers with even par 71s.

Maris Signs Contract With Cards

By CHARLES BAROUH
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The man who broke Babe Ruth's home run record and lived to regret it, Roger Maris, has signed his 1967 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cardinal General Manager
Stan Musial announced the former Yankee slugger had signed at a press conference at Busch Memorial Stadium Thursday.

Maris reportedly signed for $72,- 000.

"We're very happy and pleased to have Roger here," Musial said. "He's a fine ball player," the former Cardinal batting champion added.

Maris came to the Cardinals this past winter in a deal that sent third baseman Charley Smith to the Yankees. Maris admitted he had been thinking about retiring when the deal was announced.

"Last year I wasn't sure I would continue in baseball," Maris said.

"I didn't care to go back to New York," the 32-year-old outfielder stated. "The announcement of the trade made me think even more," he added.

The native of Fargo, N.D.,

STILL IN CALIFORNIA—but only temporarily. Outfielder Tommy Davis, two-time National League batting champion, jumps the spring training gun for his new club, the Mets, at Cerritos College in Norwalk, Calif.
Davis was traded to New York from the Los Angeles Dodgers over the winter.

rapped 61 home runs in 1961. He became the center of a heated controversy over whether he really had broken Ruth's record of 60 home runs in a season.

Some contended that Maris hadn't broken the record because he had played a 162-game season. Others pointed out the longer season and the greater traveling balanced the other factors.

Maris never came close to repeating his home run production after 1961. Injuries kept him on the bench during the following years.

The Los Angeles Dodgers signed five players acquired in deals this winter.

They included Bob Bailey and Gene Michael, who came from Pittsburgh in the Maury Willis trade; Ron Hunt and Jim Hickman, acquired from the New York Mets for Tommy Davis, and relief pitcher Bob Lee, who came from the California Ag-nells.

Vice President Buzzie Bavasi said all received raises.

Pete Richert of the Washington Senators was given a raise that will bring him about $21,- 000. The 27-year-old left-hander had a 14-14 record last season and struck out 195 hitters, more than any Washington pitcher since Walter Johnson in 1915.

The Chicago White Sox signed first baseman Bob Spence of Santa Clara University, their
No. 1 choice in the special free agent draft. He got an estimated $77,000 bonus.

Philadelphia signed its No. 2 selection in the draft, third baseman Ernie Aguirre, 18.

Time Running Out on the Boston Team

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) —
Time is running out on the Boston Celtics in their chase of the Philadelphia 76ers in the Na-

Eastern Division race.

The Celtics' hopes suffered another crippling blow on their home-away-from-home court Thursday night as the lowly Baltimore Bullets pulled a 128-124 upset at Rhode Island Auditorium.

The defeat, only the second in 15 games for the Celtics, dropped them seven full games behind the 76ers, who were idle along with the rest of the league.

The Bullets, buried in last place 37 games behind in the East, stormed to a 74-57 halftime lead and were in front 86-69 midway through the third period.

Then the Celtics launched one of their patented rallies. They

Bair Would Like to Be Very Best

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam
Bair is the best part-Algonquin miller with an ulcer who runs with a peach seed carved into the shape of a monkey around his neck in the country.

Some day the Kent State runner would like to be the best without any of those qualifying phrases, but things being the way they are—Jim Ryun and all —he'd probably settle for being
No. 2.

Bair runs the mile tonight in the U.S. Track and Field Federation's invitational track meet and, figuring he'll make it in less than four minutes some time this year, hopes this will be the night.

The 20-year-old junior turned in the fastest time of his career at the Boston A. A. Games two weeks ago, winning in 4:04.8. He won't even be the favorite tonight, though, since NCAA mile champion Dave Patrick of Villa-nova had a 4:03.7 in the Millrose games here in January.

Bair's career nearly came to an untimely end in the collegiate cross-country championships at Kansas in 1965. With three miles to go, he was running third when his duodenal ulcer erupted.

"We were waiting at the finish line," a Kent State official remembers, "and the runners kept coming in and there was no
Sam. Finally, he came limping in 75th, bleeding from the mouth and white as a sheet. He wouldn't quit."

After a speedy recovery, Bair, who is just 5-6 and 128 pounds, was running again and always with his lucky peach seed. He says his Indian grandfather carved it into the shape of a monkey and his father carried it all the way through World War II. Sam now wears it 24 hours a day on a leather thong and when he runs it flaps out behind him.

Other competitors in the meet include Bob Seagren, indoor pole vault record holder from the University of Southern California, Bill Gaines, the Mullica Hill, N.J., high school student who owns part of the indoor 60-yard dash record and Tommie Smith and Lee Evans, the fine San Jose State runners, who will be in the 500 and 600 respectively.

Also, Richmond Flowers, Jr., the University of Tennessee hurdler and football player, will be in the 60-yard high hurdles and Bob Zieminski, winner of the 1,000-yard run in the Millrose, will run that distance.

Ricardo Urbina of Georgetown is slated to run in the 800 and Van Nelson of St. Cloud
State will go in the two-mile.
Stan Albright of Cleveland and Ron Tull of Oklahoma are seven-foot high jumpers entered.

PITCHING—Last two years Red Sox staff did its best pitching after midnight. That's supposed to be all changed now. Dennis Bennett struggling to maintain his career after two years of arm trouble. Ditto Dave Morehead who had a no-hitter two years ago. Most anonymous starting line in baseball:
Darrell Brandon (8-8), Jim Lonborg (10-10), Jose Santiago (12-13), Hank Fischer (2-3), Don McMahon, Lee Stange, John Wyatt the firemen. May all the fires be small. Top rookie, Gary Waslewski, 18-11 at Toronto. RATING—C.

INFIELD—"Great" George Scott (.245) anything but that last half of season. Still hit 27 homers, had 90 RBI. Joe Foy (.262) at third base has a good future. Rico Petrocelli improving at shortstop. Had 18 homers, 59 RBI last season. But hit .238. Second base a problem. George Smith a .213 hitter.
RATING—C.

OUTFIELD—Hard to improve on Tony Conigliaro (.265, 28 HR, 93

Same with Jose Tartabull, who came over from As. RATING—B.

He weighs 215, hit .214. Bob Till-

Bobcats Seek to Avenge Early Loss

By RALPH ROUNTON

Hope Bobcats face their toughest week of the district round robin this weekend. The Cats, with a 5-4 conference mark, good enough for 4th place, must take two victories in order to contend for the three state tournament places.

Tonight the Bobcats will play hosts to the Smackover Bucka-roos, tied for second in the conference with a 7-2 record. The Bucks defeated Hope in an earlier meeting 49 to 25 at Smackover.

Saturday night the Bobcats journey to Magnolia for a rematch with the surprising Panthers who nearly upset the high-flying Crossett Eagles last week before falling 34-33.

Hope beat Magnolia earlier 51-47 in an overtime. The Bobkittens play the prelude game both nights at 6:30 p.m.

WORLD ALMANAC
FACTS

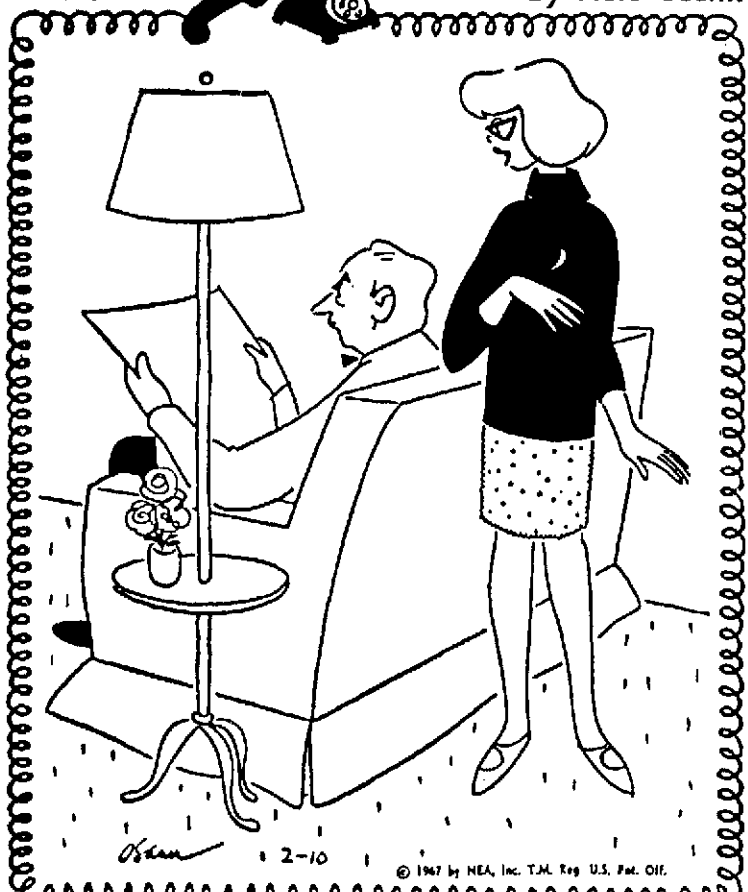

The Domesday Book is the result of a survey of England ordered by William the Conqueror. Completed in 1086, it consists of two volumes in Latin detailing the size, value and ownership of all lands within the country, says The World Almanac. In addition, it records the number of freemen and serfs on individual estates as well as the number of plows, mills, fish ponds and livestock. The book is now kept in London and is an invaluable source of information on 11th-century England.

The Blackwood convention is so valuable that many players believe you just can't bid successfully without using it.

In "Win at Bridge with Jacoby and Son" we point out that there are certain hands where the Blackwood convention is no help in slam bidding and we give two don'ts in connection with Blackwood. These are:

1. Don't use Blackwood when you hold a worthless doubleton in an unbid suit.
2. Don't use Blackwood unless you are prepared to bid a slam if your partner's response shows that your side holds three aces.

These two don'ts are both apparent in today's hand.

South has a big hand opposite his partner's opening bid. He shows it by jumping to two spades and is delighted to find that his partner can raise him. If he believes in the use of Blackwood and nothing else he can bid four no-trump. North will show one ace and South will have no idea about whether he can or can't make a slam. If he does bid six and West opens a diamond, as is most likely, the defense will take the first two tricks. If he bids only five and it turns out that North holds a singleton diamond South will learn that he has missed a slam.

South can save himself all this trouble if he leaves Blackwood entirely alone and bids four clubs over three spades. North will probably bid four hearts to show good hearts and South can jump to five spades to say to partner, "We have no losers in spades, hearts or clubs but I have two diamond losers. What can you do about that suit?"

North won't be able to do anything about diamonds and will pass.

The defense will take two diamond tricks and North and South will be happy.

Aleindor Can Write His Own Figure

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A bonus bidding war for senior stars of collegiate basketball looms immediately ahead and in the future Lew Aleindor should be able to virtually write his own ticket.

Commissioner George Mikan of the newly formed American Basketball Association says he expects the league to be on a par with the established National Basketball Association in two years.

Mikan told a news conference Thursday, "We are prepared to bid on star college players, I would have to think it will be a bidding war."

Asked how he expected to reach par with the NBA so quickly, the former pro great answered, "There are players like Jim Walker and Lew Aleindor in the colleges, and don't forget Rick Barry of San Francisco's Warriors is only in his second year and he is a superstar already."

Asked if there would be an all out bidding battle for Aleindor, currently only a sophomore at UCLA, Mikan answered, "We know Aleindor would make any club which signed him."

"We know he would be an attraction in any city of either league. He would be a great start toward the ultimate goals we have set for ourselves."

Mikan said players of the NBA who are not under contractual obligations would be welcomed for negotiations by ABA clubs.

Tumble Wind Best Colt at Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Tumble Wind remains the best colt at Santa Anita, but turf observers today still are debating his future in the big derby attractions this year, including Santa Anita's derby March 4.

Tumble Wind won the San Vicente Stakes Thursday pretty much as he and jockey Bill Shoemaker pleased. It was a seven-furlong sprint against five other youngsters. The margin of victory was 1 1/4 lengths.

The losers included Rising Market, who upset highly regarded Disciplinarian by a neck for second place.

It was Tumble Wind's first stakes triumph of the year and the longest distance he had ever traveled. But the Florida-bred colt from the Rock Springs Farm Stable still has to run a distance of ground and do it around two turns.

Shoemaker seemed a trifle restrained in his post-race comments.

"This is a real nice colt and he's improving. . . he was all out at the end. . . it's a little early to tell how he'll go around two turns."

Tumble Wind was beaten seven lengths by Disciplinarian in a previous takes. But it was run in sloppy going, the first time Tumble Wind had ever encountered an off track.

There also was a six-pound shift in weights, as Shoemaker noted, with Tumble Wind, 115 pounds, and Disciplinarian, 118, the reverse from the previous race.

3 Held for Armed Robbery

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Leonard D. Spears, 30, of Forest City, Ark., and three others will face a preliminary hearing one week from today in connection with the $12,000 armed robbery of a supermarket in a Madison suburb.

The four were being held in the county jail here because they were unable to post bond of $30,000 each.

Spears, Willard D. McClanahan, 30, no permanent address, and Carl Pankey, 29, of Memphis were charged Saturday with armed robbery. Vesser J. Swaitte, 26, also of Memphis, was charged with aiding and abetting robbery.

Olympians Going After Own Records

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Four Olympians take a whirl at their own records tonight but the spotlight is on Jim Grelle and Richard Romo at the Will Rogers Indoor Games.

The two crack milers clash in a race billed as the highlight of the seventh track extravaganza in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum.

Romo goes after the big upset in his home state after a glittering 4:04.7 at Seattle a week ago. He is the only Texan to dip below the four-minute mark.

Grelle, whose hobby is cracking the magical four-minute figure, beat Romo in their only meeting this year, at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

Grelle turned up last week with a 4:08.4 in winning at the San Diego Invitational.

A day's horse entry also has caused rumblings. He is John Baker, the former Western Athletic Conference champion from New Mexico University.

Other Olympian record holders here are Randy Matson, John Thomas and Ralph Boston. Two other Olympic veterans, Mel Pender and Tom Farrell, are entered.

Alworth Wins AFL Title in Pass Catching

NEW YORK (AP) — Lance Alworth of the San Diego Chargers, long regarded as one of pro football's most dangerous pass receivers, won the American Football League's individual title in that category in 1966, according to official statistics released today.

Alworth, who was second in 1964, had 73 receptions for 1,383 yards and 13 touchdowns last season, even though he missed one full game and part of another because of injuries. His figures top the league in all three categories.

He now has a career total of 274 receptions for 5,651 yards and 54 touchdowns.

Baseball, Grid Stars to Tee Off

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Many of the top names of the baseball and football worlds tee off today in the $30,000 American Astrojet Golf Classic, a partner best-ball tournament confined to stars of these two sports.

The tournament format matches a baseball star with a football player to form a team. The 27 teams play best-ball net score using full handicaps.

Among those competing for the $10,000 first prize over the par 36-38-72 La Costa Country Club course are Sandy Koufax, Willie Mays, Mickey Mantle, Jim Maloney, Brooks Robinson, Don Drysdale, Yogi Berra, Johnny Unitas, Mike Ditka, Bart Starr, Jim Taylor and John Brodie.

Chute Unsafe, Bobsledding Matches Off

ALPE D'HUEZ, France (AP) — Athletes from seven countries started home today following the cancellation of the 1967 four-man world bobsledding championships.

The decision to call off the event — scheduled for this weekend — was made Thursday night by the technical commission of the International Bobsleigh and Tobogganing Federation (FIBT).

Chairman Johann Stuerer of Austria said the commission had decided the 1,500-meter Col Du Poutren ice chute was unsafe in its present state because of insufficient ice coating in several stretches of the course.

Brandt to Clarify Position

By ENDRE MARTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's talks with President Johnson and other U.S. officials reportedly clarified positions of the two countries on the proposed nuclear nonproliferation treaty, but failed to eliminate their differences.

Brandt is to continue his round of talks today, meeting with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara before leaving Washington later in the day.

The United States considers the nuclear treaty of vital importance. The West Germans and other non-nuclear nations agree, but are concerned the pact would widen seriously the "technological gap" between them and the nuclear powers.

Sources said Brandt expressed this concern in the course of talks with Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high U.S. officials.

Rusk, American informants said, did his utmost "to allay these apprehensions."

The treaty was only one of many issues Brandt discussed Wednesday, but sources said it became the central problem because there were no major differences on the others.

American sources said Brandt raised questions about the treaty, but did not express objections. West German informants contended, however, that Brandt voiced some reservations.

West Germany is not isolated in its concern, Brandt told reporters after his White House visit. There are about a dozen non-nuclear, industrialized nations which share Bonn's feelings, he said.

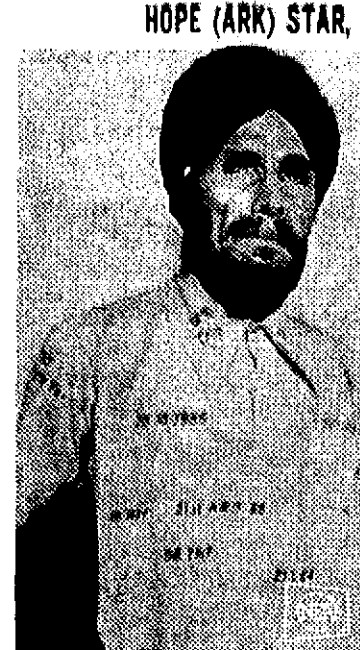

But, Brandt added, West Germany "has no intention to be the gang leader. We do not gang up on anybody."

This morning Brandt is scheduled to have breakfast with Humphrey. The two talked Wednesday and arranged the second meeting to continue their discussion.

The minister also will meet with McNamara and their discussions are expected to focus on the question of an agreement in which the West Germans have pledged to offset the foreign currency cost of keeping 225,000 American troops in Germany.

Brandt repeated Wednesday that it is Bonn's intention to comply with the present obligation before the current agreement expires June 30.

Then our mouth was filled with laughter, and our tongue with shouts of joy, then they said among the nations, "The Lord has done great things for them." — Psalms 126:2.

Republicans Attack War on Crime Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's program for a nationwide war on crime, with the federal government footing a good bit of the bill, had hardly reached Congress before Republican leaders attacked it.

Johnson's proposal would not make the federal government boss of crime control but would give the government a major role in it by being a big help and a guiding force.

But the Republican House leader, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, said the best way to finance a nationwide attack on crime would be through federal tax-sharing. Tax-sharing has been a much talked of way to bail out states.

As usually discussed, tax-sharing would have the federal government turn over to the states — without strings and therefore without control — billions of dollars from federal revenue.

Under such an arrangement the states could suit themselves on how they used the money. With this latitude some states, perhaps most, could decide none of the federal money would be used for crime prevention.

Ford's deputy in the House, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, pointed out that last Nov. 13 Johnson had vetoed a bill for fighting crime in the District of Columbia.

HOPE (ARK) STAR, Printed by Offset

He said this put the Johnson administration in a poor position to help states against crime until the federal government acted against crime in Washington.

Nevertheless, Johnson was applauded by police and city officials from coast to coast last month when he disclosed he would offer a nationwide program for crime prevention.

When Johnson vetoed the District's anticrime bill — a highly controversial measure before it ever reached him — he explained he thought it would create more problems than it solved and would be fought in courts for years.

Anticipating the usual complaint of federal interference in local affairs if his new anticrime program became law, Johnson in a special message to Congress Monday explained why he was suggesting it.

He said it this way: Crime control is mainly a local problem, but so are health and education. Yet the federal government has had to help local governments on health and education and should do the same about crime since maintaining public order is the "first business of government."

He is asking Congress for $350 million over two years to help the states and cities with planning, research and pilot projects, with the federal government paying about 90 per cent of the cost in this phase of the program.

Then the government would contribute 60 per cent of the cost of local programs the government approved for putting crime prevention into action. The states and cities, of course, would have to pay some of the freight, too.

Since the state and city governments would have to get their programs approved by the federal government before they could get federal money, this would give the federal government some say over the programs.

Johnson in his message saw a lot of things that needed doing, like more efficient courts, more widely used and better educated policemen, better ways to lead people out of crime than they can find in jails now.

He also proposed new controls on the use of narcotics and on the sale of firearms, big and little, and a ban on wiretapping and "electronic bugging and snooping" except in the field of national security.

Johnson sent his message to Congress two weeks after receiving the report of the National Crime Commission, which he created in July 1965. Officials said his recommendations were consistent with those of the commission.

DETROIT FIGHTS BACK at traffic congestion by erecting these bus shelters to encourage its citizens to use mass transportation. BILL EXEMPTS (from page one) mine whether there is a need for major changes in the state constitution, and if it found that there was, would recommend the best way to make them.

Most of the bill's proponents feel that it is a prelude to a constitutional convention. If the commission decides that a convention is necessary, it would recommend the method of setting it up and give advice on what changes should be considered.

To be composed of 30 persons appointed by the governor, the speaker of the House, the president pro tem of the Senate, the chief justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court and the president of the Arkansas Bar Association, the commission would begin its study 30 days after the bill becomes effective. Its final report would be due on or before Jan. 1, 1968.

A similar bill by Rep. Virgil Butler of Batesville is awaiting action in the House.

The school enumeration bill, which would permit school districts to enumerate students every five years instead of every two, passed 62-29 after the House adopted a motion for reconsideration by Rep. Jack S. Oakes of Augusta.

There was some misunderstanding about the bill during the previous day's debate, Oakes said, because it would not, as had been thought, benefit only small school districts.

Oakes said schools with a dwindling student population would get a slight break on state aid money by enumerating only every five years, but that the amount would be minimal, and in most instances, less than the cost of an enumeration.

Rep. Paul Bates of Pine Bluff, author of the insurance bill, said the measure was aimed at disreputable companies, but that it would have some effect on other insurance firms.

Other action in the Senate: —Defeated 18-8 a House bill that would have prohibited the operation of motor vehicles with parking lights on, unless headlights were on, too.

—Approved 32-0 a bill by Sen. Milt Earmhart of Fort Smith that would require life imprisonment for habitual criminals.

—Approved 33-1 a bill by Sen. J. Lee Baarden of Leachville that would extend the racing season at Oaklawn Park from 43 to 50 days.

—Approved 28-2 a bill by Sen. John F. (Mutt) Gibson of Dermott that would establish a State Misdemeanor Farm at the State Penitentiary in order to separate felons from persons convicted only of misdemeanors.

Other action in the House:

—Passed a bill authorizing the Health Department to require phenylketonuria tests for newborn infants to determine if they suffer from metabolic defects.

—Adopted a resolution directing the Legislative Council to make a study of the state's planning laws.

—Passed a bill eliminating terms of court in circuit, chancery and probate courts and providing that they always be open.

—Defeated a bill by Rep. L. L. (Doc) Bryan of Russellville permitting radio and television stations, as well as newspapers, to take legal notices.

—Refused Rep. N. B. (Nap) Murphy's request that the House withdraw from the Senate a bill permitting the transfer of license plates from one vehicle to another. Murphy said the bill helped large truckers and harmed small ones.

The House met as a committee of the whole to hear the Highway Department review a proposed highway beautification act regulating outdoor advertising and junkyards along interstate and primary highways.

The state stands to lose $8 million a year in federal highway funds if it does not enact some beautification legislation.

The only way to learn something new is to try it.

Training for a High Position

Those gorgeous, gracious maids of the skyways who devote their working hours to making air travel pleasant didn't gain their talents for administering comfort by simply donning a cute little air stewardess cap.

Firefighting, hopefully, will never confront the average stewardess. But in case it does, training includes learning to use a fire extinguisher.

In a rigorous training program they learn everything from quieting nervous elderly passengers to fending off amorous males. They serve meals in airplane mock-ups in preparation for the airborne dinner hour and practice emergency procedure, such as learning mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on a dummy as pictured above. They learn dozens of talents in preparation for the day when they board an airliner for their first flight, as the three grads at upper right are doing.

Fellow classmates serve as passengers in dramatizing some of the situations that will confront the stewardess. Girl on her knees is portraying a seeing eye dog.

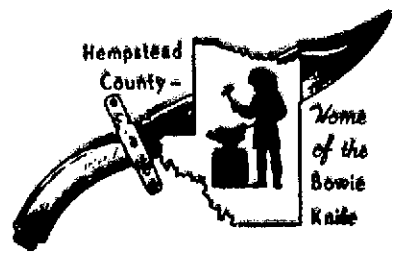

Even the well-groomed look didn't come by accident. Trainees undergo consultation with a make-up expert to learn how to make the scenery aboard a plane attractive, even at 30,000 feet and above clouds.

Blizzard Strikes Anew on Seaboard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A new snowstorm struck the already blizzard-ravaged eastern seaboard today with up to 14 inches of additional snow that tangled transportation and played havoc with thousands of commuters.

The storm hit Virginia and the Carolinas, then swept northward into New Jersey, New York and New England, where millions were still digging out of Tuesday's blizzard that dumped up to 16 inches of snow, took lives and cost millions of dollars in business losses and snowremoval expenses.

Swirling out of the Appalachian Mountains Thursday, the storm dumped heavy snow inland and whipped exposed coastal points with winds of gale force.

The U.S. Weather Bureau warned of snow accumulations of four or more inches for Rhode Island, eastern Massachusetts and coastal sections of northern New England.

A spokesman at the Boston Weather Bureau said, however, "We do not anticipate any massive storm such as occurred last Tuesday."

The snow all along the Atlantic Coast was expected to end by noon followed by clearing weather and temperatures in the 30s and 40s that should help melt the white stuff.

At least four new storm-connected deaths - two in Georgia and two in South Carolina resulting from traffic mishaps on icy roads - were reported. Eighty-three deaths were attributed to Tuesday's blizzard.

Snow depths of up to 14 inches were reported in southeastern New Jersey, where the white stuff was falling at an unusually rapid rate of up to three inches an hour. Atlantic City reported 14 inches.

Inland, the snow began tapering off over Virginia and Maryland before dawn, with no additional accumulation expected. Rain dampened scattered sections in the north Pacific Coast, with snow in mountain areas. Skies were mostly clear in other sections. Mild weather prevailed in the far Southwest, and southern Florida.

West African Plot Broken

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP)—A military plot to seize power in this former British West African colony has been broken up by the government, Prime Minister Sir Albert M. Margai said Wednesday night.

Sir Albert said the plotters planned to kill him, the army commander and a number of government ministers and employees.

The plot is still being investigated and action will be taken against those involved, Sir Albert said. He became prime minister in April, 1964, three years after Sierra Leone became independent.

French Erred With Satellite

HAMMAGUIR, Algeria (AP)—A 27 per cent error in its orbit may prevent France's third satellite from being used to chart the Mediterranean area more exactly.

Launched Wednesday from France's Sahara test base, the 50-pound Diadem satellite went into an orbit whose maximum altitude was about 315 miles lower than the planned 1,145 miles, officials said.

They said this would probably make it impossible for stations in Algeria, Greece and southern France to focus laser beams on the satellite simultaneously. Such triangulation is necessary for the planned project to measure terrain and distances.

Colombia's Quake Toll Now at 65

By DANIEL HARKER
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The toll of dead in Colombia's earthquakes rose to 65 Thursday night with the state of Huila, a center of political violence and banditry for the past 15 years, the hardest hit.

Police said 46 were dead and 220 injured in Huila, the mining and ranching region of 250,000 persons 200 miles southwest of Bogota. Some villages were reported in ruins.

More than 300 persons were reported injured throughout the nation.

As reports of destruction reached the capital, the government declared a state of emergency and ordered reconstruction of damaged buildings worth millions of dollars.

Red Cross and army emergency teams were organized. Interior Minister Misael Pastrana Borrero was sent to direct relief efforts in Huila.

The interior ministry said two shocks Thursday morning were the worst ever felt in Colombia. One measured seven to eight on a 12-point scale. A third tremor followed six hours later.

Incidents of mass terror and individual bravery were reported in Bogota, where 13 Colombians were killed, including two children. A teacher was said to have rescued 40 children from a school in which a falling wall killed his wife and mother-in-law.

Thousands of crying, praying persons hurried into the streets and piazzas after the morning quakes. The later quake renewed the panic.

As tall buildings swayed, windshields shattered on the pavement. Power failures trapped hundreds in elevators.

The presidential palace and the 350-year-old Metropolitan Cathedral were damaged. Many of the cathedral's statues smashed on the floor.

Slight damage was reported at the 17-story building housing the U.S. Embassy.

Arkansan Dies in Action

Church Roof Cave-in Is Described

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Young Joseph Simmons, late for church, was just about to enter the side door when heard a noise which "sounded like thunder."

"Then the walls began to shake and I heard people screaming," the 13-year-old boy said. "I ran out to the street and I saw the roof cave in."

In that instant, the roof of St. Rose of Lima Church collapsed, dumping tons of debris on about 100 worshippers, most of them children.

No one was killed. But 48 persons, 32 of them children, were injured and nine were admitted to hospitals after the mishap at Thursday's Lenten Mass.

Robert Rindone, 13, struck on the head by a falling chandelier, was in critical condition at South Baltimore General Hospital.

The collapse came at 8:11 a. m. as the Rev. Francis O'Brien was saying Mass.

A storm which dumped 11 inches of snow on Baltimore Monday may have helped prevent a major disaster. With the school closed two days, teachers were unable to remind the children to attend the Mass.

Rescue workers said more injuries were averted because of the roof fell across the pews.

Paul Gaudreau, architect of the church which was dedicated in 1952, discounted the theory that three inches of snow on the pitched roof had caused the collapse.

Bill Exempts Machinery From Tax

By GEORGE F. BARTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House of Representatives approved a bill exempting machinery and equipment used in manufacturing and processing plants from the 3 per cent sales tax Thursday, and the Senate passed a measure that would create a Constitutional Revision Study Commission.

The House also approved a school enumeration bill it had turned down Wednesday and passed a bill prohibiting insurance companies from issuing policies in which they agree to invest a portion of policy premiums.

Opponents of the sales tax exemption bill, identical to a controversial measure defeated in the 1963 General Assembly, said it would cost the state $500,000 a year.

Rep. Doug Brandon of Little Rock said the exemption would make the state more attractive to industry, and that it would bring about the purchase of more industrial machinery and equipment in Arkansas.

The bill passed 83-6.

The Constitutional Revision Study Commission, mentioned by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in his inaugural address Jan. 10, was proposed in an administration measure introduced by Sen. Ben Allen of Little Rock.

The Senate approved it 26-5. The commission would determine the bill's effect.

Manchester's Book Is Red Best Seller

SOPIA, Bulgaria (AP)—The serialization of William Manchester's "The Death of a President" is the new best seller in Communist Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria.

Readers line up eagerly for issues of the controlled newspapers in Prague, Budapest and Sofia which carry long summaries of the excerpts from the book being serialized in Western magazines.

The legal hassle surrounding the serialization and the efforts of the Kennedy family to trim some parts are presented by Communist party propagandists as evidence supporting the Community theory that President John F. Kennedy was the victim of a conspiracy.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—The U.S. Command today reported a massive supply buildup in North Vietnam during the first three days of the lunar new year truce and the suspension of American bombing raids.

U.S. officials said the four-day cease-fire proclaimed by the South Vietnamese government remains in effect. But they would not rule out the possibility that air strikes against North Vietnam might be ordered before the truce ends Sunday should the Communist buildup reach levels considered "intolerable" by the U.S. Command.

The North Vietnamese movement of supplies southward is "not technically a violation of the stand down," these sources said, but it was obviously long planned and "creates doubts as to North Vietnamese sincerity about the truce."

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—In Secretary of State Dean Rusk's opinion, the Communists are gearing up for more hard fighting in Vietnam rather than an extension of the current cease-fire for a move to a conference table.

Rusk gave this report at a nationally-televised news conference Thursday midway in the allied-proclaimed Feb. 8-12 Lunar New Year cease-fire. The Communists have called for a seven-day truce.

"There have been a disturbing number of violations of that cease-fire," Rusk said.

"We have seen large numbers of boats and other vessels dashing south along the coast of North Vietnam to resupply their (Communist) forces in the southern part of North Vietnam and in the Demilitarized Zone."

"Now this indicates that it is their intention to continue the operations, and the large number of incidents indicates that they are not particularly interested in an actual cease-fire."

The U.S. foreign affairs chief also said he could not report "any tangible forward movement" toward peace talks despite continuing U.S. diplomatic efforts.

And he rejected Communist calls for a halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam unless Hanoi shows willingness to scale down its assault on the south.

"You cannot stop this war simply by stopping a half of it," he said.

Rusk specifically found unacceptable the North Vietnamese hints that they "could" enter into peace negotiations if only the U.S. air attacks ended. He pictured this as a propaganda drive to stop an important U.S. military action without giving up anything in return.

"They must not expect us to stop our military action by bombing while they continue their military action by invasion," he said. But, he declared, "no one has been able or willing" to tell the United States just what Hanoi would do if the air raids are called off.

The secretary of state gave reporters an updated version of the 14-point American peace program and added this appeal "quietly and sincerely to all capitals" in the Communist world:

"Let good sense take charge for all of us in this situation. Recognize the necessity for elementary reciprocity. Join with us in a common search for peace. . ."

The updated statement reminded Warsaw Pact countries they had called July 6 for a strict observance of the 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements on Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

"We are ready to negotiate a settlement based on a strict observance of the 1954 and 1962 agreements," the State Department said. "And we will support a reconvening of the Geneva Conference, or an Asian conference, or any other generally acceptable forum."

Officials said this was the first time a prod to Moscow and its eastern European allies had been incorporated into the 14-point statement.
